(MANS); or Committee for Eradication of Blind Faith, CEBF) is an organization dedicated to fighting superstition in India, particularly in the state of Maharashtra. It was founded by Narendra Dabholkar in 1989. since 2010, the organization has been headed by Avinash Patil.

It was founded by Narendra Dabholkar in 1989. In 1999, MANS had protested the canonization of Mother Teresa on the basis of purported miracles, but they had praised her service to the ailing and diseased. The organization campaigned against immersion of Ganesha idols in water bodies and urged people to use smaller idols and vegetable dyes to avoid polluting rivers and lakes. MANS proposed that citizens could instead immerse the idols into the tanks built specially for this purpose on the riverbanks.

MANS had been campaigning for a law to check the exploitation of people's superstitions in Maharashtra for a long time.

In 1989 at the Andhashraddha Nirmoolan Jahirnama Parishad held that year in Pune, then Chief minister Sharad Pawar had indicated the formation of a law in that direction. The issue was raised again in 1995 in the Legislative Council. On 28 July 2003, MANS members organized a hunger strike outside the State Assembly in Mumbai to protest the state's inaction.

Dabholkar was murdered on 20 August 2013. The pending Anti-Superstition and Black Magic Ordinance was promulgated in the state of Maharashtra, four days after his death.

So With Help Two Events Our College arrange Program on To create awareness about the Abolition of Superstitions Act.
